

CAPITAL RACE RIOTS QUELLED BY APPLICATION OF MILITARY RULE

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Order has been restored by troops under the leadership of Major General Haan who is in charge of the administration of martial law at the capital city. The situation is regarded as better than at any time since the rioting broke out several days ago. No mobs are permitted to form any place and everybody must keep moving. Each policeman is supported on his beat by two armed soldiers and troops are posted at every point where there is any likelihood of riots. Two thousand soldiers are patrolling the city and there are also several hundred marines, provost guards and sailors on the police force.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Wilson took a hand in the race riots and as a result the capital is under martial law. The President was prompted to act by the frenzied violence of mobs last night and early this morning. With four men dead, a dozen or more wounded, and scores in the hospitals because of injuries, Washington seems today to the realization that "martial law" policy of local officials, who have been unable to cope with the situation, could not continue.

A major general is therefore in charge of the army forces while armed soldiers, sailors and marines are patrolling the streets in all sections of the city where rioting prevailed. The President sent for Secretary Baker late yesterday afternoon and after the conference, the latter announced that Major General William Haan, who just returned from France, would be in charge of the military. The provost guard has been greatly augmented by troops brought here hurriedly from Camp Meade, Md., and Quantico, Va. There was an ominous turn to the situation, however, in the announcement of another attack by a negro on a white woman—the seventh in the past three weeks. Assaults on white women by various blacks started the trouble which began Saturday and has raged continuously since, reaching fever height last night. A posse is now searching for this negro, and word of the attack on the woman, a Mrs. Nightengale, of Capital Heights, has been published in the newspapers. Trouble, with renewed violence because of the death list and the actions on the part of negroes in their own section may again break out. In some of the negro sections the following placards were posted: "White folks, better stay in your houses tonight if you don't want trouble." The plausible neglect on the part of the police has allowed hundreds of negroes to purchase firearms, and automobiles filled with blacks, armed to the teeth and looking for trouble, have been in evidence because of the failure to put a stop to the sale of firearms. The police have said they lacked authority, yet stores refused to sell revolvers this afternoon. Police headquarters were alive with wild stories all afternoon and the entire city seething with unrest. It was reported at one time that automobiles, driven by negroes, had gone to Baltimore to purchase supplies and ammunition. At 7 last night when the streets in the downtown section of the city began to fill with crowds, as on the three preceding evenings, a troop of cavalry with the riders bearing their rifles in full view, filed slowly down Pennsylvania avenue. Motor lorries, with jacks carrying night sticks and side arms, also parade the main streets of the town, while marines and infantry, carrying their own arms, marched up the side streets, prepared to take their stations for the night.

Conflicting Thoughts

PRESIDENT TAKES RESPONSIBILITY FOR SHANTUNG

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Wilson, in conversation with Republican senators admitted sole responsibility for the Shantung settlement. The senators were told that Lloyd George and Clemenceau refused to participate in discussion of Japan's claim of Shantung because of the secret treaty which England and France had made with Japan covering the settlement. The President said that the entire matter of appeasing Japan and satisfying her demands for territorial aggression was turned over to the President. Senators were told that the President negotiated the settlement with Japan representatives and agreed to give Shantung to the empire. The terms of settlement were then submitted to the other members of the Big Five for approval. This is the first time that this big secret of the peace conference has been told. It made a profound impression upon the senators to whom it was revealed. They were senators who had been summoned by the President to the White House to listen to reasons why the treaty should be ratified without alterations or amendments. The President also gave some of the reasons why Japan's claims to Shantung were agreed to. One of the most important of those was that Japan had been exceedingly backward about entering the war on the side of the allies. The secret treaties with England and France were negotiated as a bait to Japan to get in and help drive the Germans out of China. It was not until after England and France had agreed to support Japan's claims to large slices of China's territory that Japan did come in.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON CLOSING

With the exception of the hardware stores all the stores of Clearfield will be open for business tomorrow afternoon, the Thursday afternoon closing movement not having been fully worked out in a manner that will permit the general closing up to tomorrow afternoon.

RAID SPEAKEASY AT DUBOIS CITY

The first speakeasy case in DuBois, to come before court was that of a party, giving his name as Caramella, arrested yesterday morning by Chief Peace and Patrolman Bovee. At the trial before Judge Neff yesterday afternoon, he was held over for court. The evidence was obtained by Officer Bovee, a new member of the police force, who has been working on the case for a number of days. Obtaining information that a speakeasy was in existence back of the Dinger mill, Mr. Bovee, not as well known as the residents of the flat as some of the older members of the force, went out on the case. By some clever detective work, evidence was obtained sufficient to convict. By devious methods, by the assumption of the character of the part of a workman at the B. & O. P. Works, assistance was obtained to the Caramella place on the flat, and there some of the stuff being sold as cider, obtained. An examination showed that the "Cider" contained as high a per centage as twelve per cent alcohol. All the considered requisites of the old saloon, free lunch, etc., were on hand at the house. The arrest was made yesterday morning by Chief Peace and Officer Bovee. Caramella, when arrested and at the trial, claimed that he had been selling nothing except cider, but the evidence which had been obtained proved to be too incriminating against him, and as a result he was held over for court. It is believed that there are other speakeasies in operation throughout town and it is possible that more arrests will follow shortly.

SEES MORE SENATORS ON TREATY

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee hastened its reading of the text of the peace treaty today to make time for the open hearing on the covenant and for the interrogation of Secretary Lansing who has just returned from Paris.

The President conferred today with several Republican senators getting their viewpoint on the treaty and league. The league debate cooled down considerably today on the Senate floor, Senator McKellar, of Tennessee being the only member who will take the floor on the problem.

Senator Kenyon will take the floor on the agricultural bill and take a few flings at the packers for attempting to dictate the terms of the agricultural measure.

President Wilson will conclude his conference with Republican senators before starting on his cross country trip. If he sees all the senators this will consume at least two weeks although Mr. Tumulty stated today that "there is no assurance that he will see all the senators." Mr. Wilson is not considering calling off the trip as was reported.

GRAND JURY WILL BRING CHICAGO 'BLIMP' ACCIDENT

CHICAGO, ILL., July 23.—A grand jury investigation with a possibility of indictment and a decision to fix the blame for the "blimp" disaster here on Monday afternoon when twelve persons were killed in the Chicago catastrophe. State Attorney Byrne has released all witnesses except Mr. Beutner, pilot of the dirigible "Wingfoot" and W. C. Young, aeronautical expert of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, owners of the craft. Beutner and Young are not booked on any charge but are detained for a further hearing. Each of these men refused to testify at the recent hearing on the advice of their attorneys on the ground that by testifying they might incriminate themselves. The latest theory as to the cause of the disaster is that sparks from the rotary engine on the dirigible ignited the gas bag on the port side of the craft or that possibly a back fire from the engine ignited some waste petrol. Funerals of several of the victims were held today. Officials of the bank where the girls and men were killed are said to have arranged relief for these families whose incomes are depleted by the loss of life and it is also understood that the Goodyear company has sent a representative here to render any relief needed.

PENNSY SPECIAL CUTS TO PIECES WOODLAND MAN

Waldell Kenrich, a single man, 38 years of age, was ground to pieces on the Pennsylvania railroad at Woodland just after the noon hour today. Kenrich, who was employed at the Hope works of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Co., was going from his work to the Hope boarding house when killed. He was walking on the track and had reached a point under the New York Central trestle when the General Superintendent's special train, on an inspection trip of this branch, ran him down. The man was squarely on the track when struck and was literally ground to pieces. We were advised of the fatality by a Woodland resident who was very much incensed over what he characterized as the cold-blooded heartlessness of the railroad people on the train. He said the train never even slowed down after striking Kenrich, but continued on its way to the Woodland station, where it stopped long enough to report the affair to the station agent and then continued on to Tyrone without any regard to the condition or identity of the man run over or any disposition of his remains.

Superintendent Young of the Harbison-Walker company called the undertaker and had the remains gathered up and prepared for burial. Kenrich was of German descent and had been working at the brickyard for about one year and a half, coming there from New York. BAD WRECK NEAR TYRONE ALTOONA, PA., July 23.—Three trainmen were injured, two seriously, when two engines coupled together, crashed into a freight train near Tyrone this morning. Engineer J. E. Stewart of Tyrone was scalded, probably fatally. Fireman J. C. Price of Huntingdon had one leg crushed off and is in a critical condition. N. F. Long of Altoona was injured but the seriousness of his injury is undetermined although thought not serious. Mrs. Fred Morris of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. Thomas Rook and daughter, and son of Roanoke, Va., who have been visiting at the home of Ashley Gulich on Nichols street, have returned to their home.

BAIL FIXED AT $2000 IN JOHNSON CASE

A habeas corpus hearing was held in the case of Com. vs. Walter C. Johnson, the DuBois young man charged with criminally assaulting Miss Olive Korb, of Union township, near Rockton on Sunday, July 13th, last. Miss Korb was called to the stand and while very much embarrassed told the court and attorneys interested the story of the assault. She identified Johnson as he sat in the court room with his wife. On cross-examination Attorney Gleason, who represented Johnson, had the witness admit that when Johnson was brought to her home the night of his arrest three days following the commission of the crime, she said she "guessed he looked like the man". Constable Joseph Leslie of Union township, who made the arrest, followed Miss Korb upon the stand and testified regarding the locality where the assault occurred. District Attorney Arnold then moved that Johnson be held for trial and Judge Bell remanded him back to jail in default of $2000 bail.

REAL OLD SOUTHERN "TOTER"

People on Market and Third streets about 8:30 last evening were amused at a sight not often witnessed up North. Two colored women went down Market street about the time mentioned and one big black mammy carried a half bushel basket filled with roasting ears on her head and marched along as straight as a ramrod with the load evenly balanced on her dome. Everybody turned to rubber and smile, in fact the basket attracted more attention than the decorations on "Bibleback" Wilson's Panama and when "Bibleback" has all his highly colored trimmings on he looks like a major general in one of the Balkan armies. Methodist Day at Lakemont Park Altoona, is Thursday, July 24th. This has become a popular outing for the Methodists of the Altoona section of the conference, and always draws big crowds. Three sessions are held at which the following speakers will be heard: Rev. Manuel Andujar, Superintendent of Missions in Porto Rico, Bishop William Fraser McDowell of Washington, D. C., and Rev. Dr. Findley, pastor of the great church for colored people in Philadelphia.

ENFORCEMENT BILL GOES TO SENATE FOR LONG STAY

NEW YORK, July 23.—The prohibition enforcement measure passed by the House yesterday went to the subcommittee of the Senate today. The chairman of the subcommittee has announced that he will oppose any effort to alter the provision which declares that liquor containing over one half of one per cent alcohol is intoxicating liquor. He will also oppose any amendment providing for search of homes and confiscation of private stocks. Many senators fear that the House measure is too severe. There is little hope that the Senate will act on the amendment before the latter part of August as it is not expected that they will take it up until the peace treaty has been disposed of. The prohibition enforcement bill, as it passed the House, provides, after January 28, 1920:

REPAIRING PENFIELD ROAD AT LAST

Horton township really got tired waiting on Lawrence township to get the Penfield road repaired. In the spring of 1918, the township board petitioned the Lawrence township board to get the road repaired. On Tuesday, July 23, 1919, the Lawrence township board put to work on this road at Walnut Hollow and will work this way. An attempt was made early in the season to have something done on this road and a lot of local people had agreed to assist in the work, but on account of the delay all summer this help may not be available at this time. The mountain road clean through from Walnut hollow to Penfield has been in the best condition it has been in for years and if the Lawrence township board is finally properly improved it will make possible a beautiful and picturesque drive and open a short route through to Ridgway and other northern points. The Lawrence supervisors claim their delay in taking up the work of repairing this road was because they had so many other roads in the township which they deemed it more necessary to repair first and that they got to the Penfield road as soon as they could consistently do so. It is hoped now that the road will be properly repaired before it is left.

Use of liquor as a beverage on any public conveyance, train, boat or jitney bus is prohibited. Broad Powers for Search Broad powers are given under the search and seizure section to officers charged with enforcement of the law. They may enter a dwelling house in which liquor is sold and seize it, together with implements of manufacture.

Every person, permitted under the law to have liquor in his possession, shall report the quantity and kind to the commissioners of internal revenue. (This applies to chemists, physicians, etc.) After February 1, 1920: The possession of any liquor, other than as authorized by the law, shall be prima facie evidence that it is being kept for sale or otherwise in violation of the law. It will not be required, however, to report, and it will not be illegal to have in one's possession liquor in a private dwelling while the same is occupied and used by the possessor as his private dwelling, and the liquor is used for personal consumption by the owner, his family or his guests. The possessor of such liquors, however, bears the burden of proof that the liquor was acquired and is possessed lawfully. Intoxicating liquor is defined as a beverage containing more than one-half per cent of alcohol. Any house, boat, vehicle or other place where liquor is manufactured or sold is declared a nuisance. No person shall manufacture, sell, barter, give away, transport, import, export, deliver, furnish or receive any intoxicating liquors. ## ALWAYS A GRAIN OF SAND IN THE OIL

Certain tradesmen in Clearfield have taken the lead in closing their place of business on Thursday afternoon in order that all employees might have an opportunity to have healthful recreation or rest during the hot season when standing behind the counter becomes irksome. Employers of store help appreciate the fact that on account of the Saturday night work these employees are deserving of this consideration and readily assent to closing their place of business one afternoon each week in order that their employees may come to their posts of duty fresh and eager for the Friday and Saturday rush.

Unity of action is hard to get however and the various committees who have worked on this proposition from year to year always have their work obstructed by one or two merchants who are too selfish to shut their eyes to the unfair opportunity presented to them to keep open while other stores are closed and snatch that measly little piece of business which is available.

If all the stores close there will be no loss of business and no loss of profits. If all but one of the stores close there will be no appreciable loss in business and the one who keeps his store open will be classed in a class by himself and who is there who would envy him his position?

The shoppers of Clearfield will back up the store men who take the right course. There is always a little fly in the ointment, a little sand in the oil. Why let a little insignificant pebble hold up the whole works?

SPROUL KILLS RAMSEY BILL

The Ramsey bill, passed after a lively career in the Legislature as a means of permitting the sale of beer and liquors containing less than 2 3-4 per cent of alcohol, was announced as vetoed by Governor Sproul today 'with the declaration' that it would be "the limit of futility," and that, in view of the national law which is being passed, it would be a dead letter soon after it got upon the statute books of Pennsylvania.

The Governor says in regard to the Ramsey bill:

"This bill purports to be an act to enforce the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States by prohibiting the manufacture, sale and transportation within the commonwealth of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes and defining the term 'intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes.'"

"The Legislature in this bill has endeavored to define the meaning of the words 'intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes' by providing that they mean all vinous, spiritous, malt or brewed liquors, or any admixture thereof, for beverage purposes when they contain more than 2 3-4 per cent. of alcohol by weight at a temperature of 60 degrees above zero, Fahrenheit. Whether such an alcoholic content as thus defined is or is not intoxicating is a question of fact as to which there seems to be some difference of opinion. This bill further provides in substance that, although a beverage with such an alcoholic content may in fact be intoxicating, it shall be considered non-intoxicating. Such a provision might open a very wide door to evasions of the law, as the legislation now rapidly passing through the Federal Congress fixes an alcoholic content very much less than that prescribed by this bill, and as the Federal law when passed will be supreme it would be the limit of futility for this commonwealth to put upon its statute books an act which would be a dead letter as soon as the Federal government shall have spoken upon the subject."

Why We Welcome Small Accounts

Many people believe that a bank does not want small accounts.

In such accounts, however, the profits are mutual.

The bank that encourages small accounts often sees them grow into large ones.

The possession of a bank account inspires the depositor to saving habits and teaches him to be business-like.

We are glad to serve the small depositor, believing his connection with the bank will benefit both him and ourselves.

LITERARY DIGEST "DADDIES" THIS 16 EGG A DAY STORY OF "BIDDIE"

Can a hen, can any hen—no matter how peepful and ambitious—lay thirteen eggs without getting off the nest, all in one day? Don't all speak at once. Many people who said things exactly like those who are now tempted to say have come to regard a well-brown hen of West Salem, Wisconsin, "with awe and reverence." They came to scoff (and remained to admit that Gus Rhodes, White Rock hen was some hen, as it were. She—it is not fitting to speak of such a biddy as "it"—has been called, "The Machine Gun Pullet," or "The Magazine Hen." Affidavits are on file as to her prowess, and she is honored in her own country of West Salem no matter what a crude outside world may think of her championship of the world is advanced in this wise by the La Crosse (Wisconsin) Tribune and Leader-Press:

With a record of 151 eggs in one month and 77 of these produced in a single week, a three-year-old White Rock hen owned by Gus Rhodes, prosperous La Crosse valley farmer living one mile east of West Salem, Wis., claims the egg-laying championship of the world.

Poultrymen who scoffed at the story when Mr. Rhodes first announced that he was getting from three to six eggs per day from one hen, and others who have visited the farm during the last week and watched the hen perform on the nest have ceased to laugh when this White Rock's achievements are mentioned. In all seriousness they are willing to take oath that the hen is delivering the goods "exactly as represented."

At first questioning the record of the hen's laying proclivities during the month of May when it was kept by Mrs. Rhodes, the skeptics some on whom were on the premises when the hen last Monday laid sixteen eggs in a period of ten hours, now regard the remarkable chicken with a feeling of awe or reverence.

And after J. H. Benson, La Crosse poultry farmer who went to the Rhodes farm and camped in the barn with the chicken for two days, appeared in the office of County Judge John Brindley and made affidavit that he saw the hen lay thirteen of those sixteen eggs in one sitting of four hours, without stopping to eat, drink, or even cackle, the skeptics are willing to accept as a verity the daily egg-laying record submitted by Mr. Rhodes since Mrs. White Rock set out to establish a new world's record.

Here it is: May 3, four eggs; May 4, three; May 5, four; May 6, five; May 8, four; May 9, three. The hen laid no more eggs until May 20, when she started in with five. Her record for the balance of the month follows: May 20, five; May 21, none; May 22, six; May 23, four; May 24, seven; May 25, four; May 26, nine; May 27, nine; May 28, eleven; May 29, ten; May 30, fourteen; May 31, fourteen; June 1, one; June 2, six; June 3, eleven; June 4, one.

Mrs. White Rock is an exclusive hen. From the first day when she started in her record egg-laying career, she has refused to lay unless admitted to the barn.

Mr. Rhodes' attention was first attracted to the hen in April, when on several days at noon he found the bird hovering around the barn door awaiting a chance to enter the building when the horses were put in for the noon-day feeding.

And each day that the hen was admitted to the barn, he found in the evening from two to six eggs in the manger. But there never was more than one hen in the building. Right there Mrs. White Rock began to get famous.

"Still I was afraid to tell my neighbors, for I knew they would laugh and I could hardly believe it myself," said Mr. Rhodes. "To be sure we were right, I began to watch the hen. When I saw her lay three and four eggs at one sitting I knew the time had come to begin to do a little crowing myself, and I told my neighbors and people in the village and invited them to come and see for themselves."

"J. H. Benson came out from La Crosse early last Sunday and watched the hen constantly all day. There were hundreds of persons here during the day, and I suppose the excitement had its effect for the hen laid only one egg. Mr. Benson decided to stay over night and watch the hen another day. And he certainly watched her. When the hen clambered into the nest finally Monday, Mr. Peterson sat down in a rocking chair in the barn near by and never took his eyes off the nest until the chicken finally arose four hours later and hopped down onto the barn floor."

"Mr. Benson found the hen had laid in this one sitting fourteen eggs. Later in the day she laid two more eggs, but Benson was gone. He went to the village to tell about it, I guess. He didn't return to the farm."

This White Rock hen is a large bird, but not of unusual size, altho her posterior quarters are larger than found on any other chicken in a large flock on the farm. She is fat and docile, a voracious eater when off the nest and consumes a large amount of grain. Mr. Rhodes believes the hen is three years old, altho he is not positive on this score.

The eggs laid by this hen are of normal size have full hard shells and single yolks. A number of the eggs have been used for setting purposes under other hens, and all have been found to be fertile.

La Crosse people won't believe it. West Salem does. A few from this city are convinced that it is O. K.

J. H. Benson, La Crosse chicken fancier on Wednesday afternoon appeared before Judge Brindley on the county court where he took an oath that he had watched the hen lay fourteen eggs in one day.

His affidavit follows: My name is J. H. Benson and I live in the city of La Crosse, Wisconsin, at 228 North Twentieth street. The first time I visited the Rhodes farm was on the 29th day of May, 1919. I arrived at 7 o'clock in the morning. Between that time and three o'clock in the afternoon of the same day the hen laid three (3) eggs. I next visited the farm on the first day of June 1919. I got there at 3 o'clock in the afternoon same day and stayed all night. I went to the hen house about 7 o'clock in the morning. I saw the hen jump from her roosting pole down on the floor and as she lit she dropped an egg (laid an egg). I saw the hen (same hen) go from the hen-roost to the barn where I made a nest for her in the barn in a box. She went on the nest at 10 o'clock that forenoon. From that time until noon she laid two (2) more eggs and was on the nest when I went to dinner. Before I went to dinner I got some fine wire screen and securely covered her so no other hen could get into the nest with her. When I got back to her nest from dinner there was no more eggs in the nest. I took off the screen and watched her diligently until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, same day, when she, the hen, got off her nest and I counted thirteen (13) eggs in the nest all laid by this same hen and normal in size. There was not at any time another hen in the barn. If anyone had put an egg in that nest I would have seen them do so and I solemnly swear that no person did put an egg in that nest and that no other hen had access to the nest or the barn. At noon that day Mr. Rhodes and his son helped me put the wire screen over the hen when I went to dinner; aside from that time no other people were in the barn that day while I was there until 3 o'clock in the afternoon when I left for home.

New Version of Sport Styles

Just what will happen next to sports clothes is a fascinating subject for speculation. The new weaves in silk have intrigued them into beautiful extravagances, and other unusual fabrics have lent them originality. All sorts of materials, from leather to oiled flannel, with a company of sturdy wools forming their main dependence. Cleverness is at a premium, nothing is considered erratic and there are sports clothes and sports clothes; some of them for actual sports wear and some of them merely versions of sport styles.

For actual sports wear, coats and skirts of wool, or heavy cotton, are plain and cut on boyish lines. Skirts wide enough and patch pockets big enough are their sensible outstanding features. The sweater and sweater-coat, in greater variety than ever, reappear, entitled to more service stripes than any other garment. One of the new, short slip-on models occupies the center in the group of three sports costumes pictured here. This is a very popular model and is made in many, many and brilliant colors.

handsome suit reveals a platted skirt of silk in which a plain satin stripe and a crepe stripe alternate, the satin stripe in white and the other in light green. The jacket, of white tulle, has a quilted pattern on the collar and cuffs, and forming a border at the bottom, having the stitching done in green silk thread. Stitching covers the narrow belt and defines the pocket, proving a very original and beautiful embellishment.

Roshanara, crepe makes the unusual dress at the right of the picture. It has a straight panel at the back but achieves the effect of a loose cut-away coat at the front, with flaring sleeves that are split up the back. Crepe georgette is used in facings that extend beyond the edges of the sleeves and coat drapery. It took audacity to add a sash of the same material as the dress, to this design, but it is here and vindicates its presence by finishing perfectly a smart and comfortable sports dress.

Correspondent Hargraves Tells of Life on The Great British Dirigible-- Take Pride in Their Work

EDITOR'S NOTE:—W. R. Hargraves, United Press Correspondent, who covered the flight of the Nancie from the Azores, was commissioned to write about life on board the R-34. Here is his story.

By W. R. HARGRAVES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, July 23.—"The British never break a promise." This statement by Commander G. H. Scott, of the British dirigible R-34, explained my visit to the interior of the giant airship during her stay at Mineola. Only two male civilians boarded the ship for inspection and my permission to do so was granted as the result of a promise made on the first day of her arrival.

Thus it is possible for the United Press to give the first details of the living and working accommodations on the aircraft as seen through a landsman's eyes.

In spite of what may appear to be hardships and discomforts, perils and privations there were none of the thirty members of the crew who failed to express the same admiration for her that is felt by those who have become accustomed to travel on certain steamships.

"Of course the quarters are rather cramped and the conditions under which we live are unusual," said Lieut. R. D. Durrant, the radio operator, "but it is a splendid thing to feel that one is part of a new transportation development—and then, too, it is our duty to our country to further her interests."

This is the spirit that kept the officers and crew cheerful during their 108-hour trip westward, when weather conditions of unprecedented violence and atmospheric changes of unusual variety made life on the dirigible anything but rosy.

One of the greatest drawbacks to life on the R-34, perhaps, is the lack of space in which to exercise. "Altho there is a 'board walk' 600 feet long running the length of the ship along its keel, this is only 9 inches wide and as I walked it, cat-like, I could not help wondering what might happen if some of the crew took an over-dose of the rum ration allowed all members of the British navy, on sea or in air, and tried to walk it off."

Before boarding the ship, which was constantly in motion through the action of the wind, although held down by hundreds of men, my shoes, hat and all matches were taken from me. This was to prevent the danger of creating sparks through friction from the nails in shoes. The removal of my hat was no doubt to prevent me from dashing after it should it be blown off. A step over the side of the 9-inch walk would land one on the thin linen fabric which covers the aluminum frame, thence through it into the thin air below.

The dirigible is about 640 feet long and is cigar shaped. The framework is of massive aluminum girders welded together similar to the structural frame of a steel skyscraper. This frame is covered with prepared linen, like that used on airplanes, and within the body thus formed are the sixteen "gas" bags, sleeping quarters, petrol tanks, water ballast and drinking water. The navigating quarters and engines are in the gondolas which hang below.

The petrol tanks which supply fuel to the engines by gravity flow, are located beside the narrow walk and are held by clutches like ice tongs, which can be quickly opened to drop the tanks overboard if necessary.

On either side of the narrow walk are hung fine-spun hammocks, strung from cross bars of the aluminum frame. If one of the air-gobs or officers should become restless in sleep and roll out, he would fall through the fabric which encases the frame, and make a swift descent to land or sea. Tied to each hammock is a deflated rubber life preserver and a silk parachute. In case of a great emergency, as fire, or imminent destruction through other causes, the life belt is inflated and the parachute hooked to a ring in a rope belt always worn. To make a safe exit, thus prepared for descent, the wearer must jump upon a circle in the linen fabric which has been cut out and replaced, held by a soft gum. This gives way, and permits him to fall through, leaving a clean, round opening instead of a tear.

These "ports" are located just beneath the aluminum petrol tanks, of which there are 81, each weighing 500 pounds and each containing 70 gallons. Sixteen of them are fixed and the remainder are called slip tanks. Should occasion require rapid ascent or immediate decrease of weight for flight, the slip tanks are released from their fastenings and drop on and through the holes.

The only light in the living quarters is that which filters through the green-painted linen, an uncanny and continual gloom of dusk. At night hand electric lights are used and when the watches are changed, every four hours, these lights are used to signal the approach of one of the crew along the walk should another member be coming from the opposite direction. There are no turn-outs on this narrow-gauge walk.

Amidships is the "dining hall" or "grand salon," or whatever a facetious officer may choose to call it. It is simply a widening out of the walk, the floor space at that point measuring about 10 by 15 feet. Here there are six hinged tables and a tiny washstand, also three tanks of distilled drinking water, each containing seventy gallons.

At mess time half of the crew off duty can squeeze into this space and eat their prepared and previously cooked food, buffet style. There are no chairs on the ship. Roasts, stews, and potatoes, a limited variety of vegetables, coffee, or cocoa comprise the meals. They are heated when wanted on appliances attached to the engine exhaust pipes. Obviously there is no after-meal cigar or cigaret enjoyed aboard.

One can stand upright traversing the length of the ship except near the bow and stern, where the gas bags are nearer the bottom of the huge envelope. There are eighteen hydrogen gas compartments within the shell, with a capacity of 2,000,000 cubic feet. Forward and aft there is a long perpendicular ladder, extending upward between bags and reaching to the roof. The observer is obliged to scale this narrow and wiggly aluminum affair whenever he wants to "take a shot" at the sun in making observations. I got half way up but the gas fumes, increased by the fact that the Blimp was being held to earth, forced me down precipitately, in utter disregard to the dents made in the soles of my stockinged feet by the sharp metal rungs of the ladder.

In the extreme stern, modern sanitary arrangements are arranged. Hanging below the bag are four gondolas, or cars, one under the bow, two sided by side, amidship, and one under the stern. The forward gondola, contains the "bridge" and chart room and navigators' quarters, as well as the wireless room, and forward engine.

The navigating and pilot room, about six feet wide and ten feet long, is the last word in completeness of navigation appliances. By means of speaking tubes and bells, all parts of the ship are controlled from this room. It is through this room that the ship is boarded from the ground, access above being via another aluminum ladder.

The two gondolas amidships, reached from the "envelope" by small ladders, each contain a single engine worked by two men. The after gondola has two engines and one propeller.

When the R-34 silently nosed her way on to the field at Mineola, there were comparatively few to receive her, the landing crew having been rushed 100 miles away to where it was believed she would be forced to land. She hovered around, however, with an almost human appearance of hesitancy, as though she were looking for a comfortable place to lie down. Finally, after circling a few times, coming lower by ejecting water ballast and through rudders, she slowed down near the spot chosen and heaved an anchor overboard for all the world like the Leviathan coming to a stop in New York bay. She then winched herself down to an elevation that permitted the ropes dangling from her to be grasped by a hastily collected "landing party" of more than three hundred men.

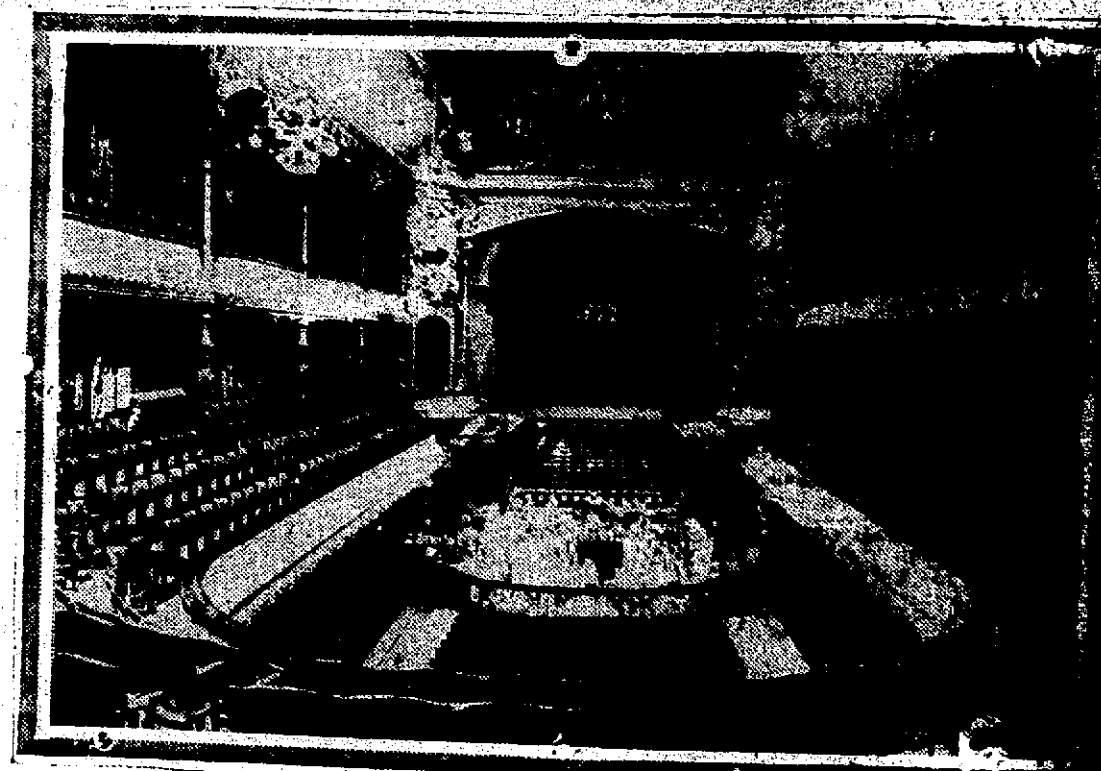

One feature of the mammoth airship that seemed to impress many of the thousands who saw her, was the peculiar silence which seemed to mark her departure. This silence, of course, did not apply to the throngs, but to the monster, as she gracefully and majestically raised her head and slipped swiftly upward and away into the night.

Our Business Plan Changes Saturday, August 2nd.

A FRANK STATEMENT

Twenty-two years ago we started this business with an idea of making not only a living, but a little more. We have made an ordinary profit as grocery profits go. We have bought carefully, watched stocks closely, sold to the best advantage. We have kept expenses down to a minimum. And yet—our net profit is an imaginary thing. We cast up our accounts and realize that to find an actual net profit is an utter impossibility.

The reasons for this condition are apparent. Our book accounts—good, bad and indifferent from a credit standpoint—represent thousands of dollars we should have to our credit in the bank as the result of our years of painstaking care in the conduct of this business. Our delivery trucks, their initial cost and the continual cost of upkeep and operation, represent a sum far beyond the conception of anyone not familiar with the situation.

All these things force us to one end. With the unsettled conditions that exist today we find it necessary to make a radical change in our business plan in order to survive.

To this end our books will close to all credit customers on Tuesday, July 29th at closing time.

The store will be closed for three days for rearrangement of stocks and prices and when we open on Saturday, August 2nd, this business will be conducted on an absolute and positive cash-and-carry-plan.

The same high standard of quality and store service will prevail. Prices will be consistently low with our new plan. We will conduct this store on a mutually profitable basis.

We'll both save.

Knowing that it would soon explode and kill all those in the vicinity, Sergeant Feigle jumped on the truck and drove it to the outskirts of the town, thereby saving the lives of at least thirty-five people.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Whittle and Billy, their son, were automobiling thru this section yesterday and stopped to rest at Clearfield's fine hotel and visit with Mrs. Thomas H. Murray and daughter who are old friends.

Helen Boyle, the kidnapper, was released from the penitentiary on parole just a few weeks ago, having served out her ten year sentence, while the husband, who was given a life term, is still in the "pen".

Keep Uric Acid Out Of Joints

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of forcing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts, put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

MAXIMUM SEED CROP IS URGED

Seeding of 1918 Was Lost in Many Sections of Country on Account of Drought.

CONTROL OF CLOVER FLOWER

Best Method Is to Destroy Larvae of First Brood—Adults Do Not Live Very Long—Watch Horses Pasturing on Alsike.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

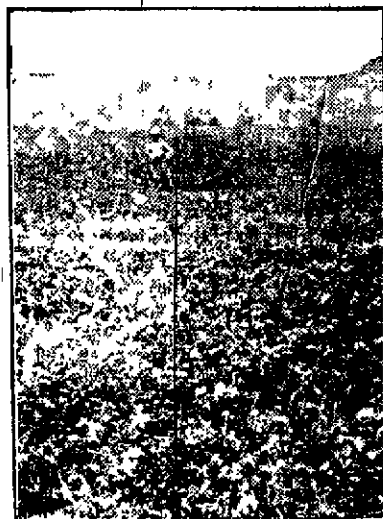

Even if there should be a good season for clover, the crop of seed cannot be as large as the country needs, because the seeding of 1918 was lost in a great many sections through drought. It is desirable, therefore, that a maximum seed crop be produced if possible. The method of controlling this clover flower midge is to destroy the larvae of the first brood. The adults that have lived over winter will lay their eggs in the flowers of the first crop of red clover. These adults do not live very long, and if the first crop can be kept from producing bloom when the adults are flying, or if the blooms can be cut before the larvae mature there will be very few, if any, adults to attack the second or seed crop of red clover. Details in regard to this matter can be found in Farmers' Bulletin 971.

Seed From June Clover.

It is sometimes desired to get seed from the first crop of June clover, and this may be done by pasturing the clover heavily enough to keep down the bloom until the latter part of May. At this time the stock may be taken off; and in that case, the June clover will seed at about the same time as the mammoth usually does. However, the common practice is to take a crop of hay and allow the second crop to make seed. When this plan is followed, care will have to be taken to control the clover-flower midge in accordance with the instructions found in Farmers' Bulletin 971.

Danger in Alsike.

During this month, also, farmers pasturing their horses on alsike clover should keep watch of their animals.

A Good Field of Timothy and Clover Hay, With a Large Part of Clover.

Especially those having white faces and white feet. A number of instances have been reported where horses have been poisoned by eating alsike clover. These instances have been numerous enough to show that alsike clover has a detrimental effect at certain stages of its development. Unfortunately, nothing is known yet as to the reason of this effect but the fact that it does occur is sufficiently well established to warrant a warning on the part of the department. When horses feeding on alsike clover are observed to have sores around the face and mouth, they should be immediately taken off the alsike clover and put upon hay or a grass pasture. This will cure the difficulty.

RIDDING CHICKS OF VERMIN

Little Piece of Lard Rubbed on Back of Head and Neck Is Quite Efficient Remedy.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Head lice on chicks is one of the drawbacks from now on. No let up in fighting these pests should be allowed. There are many remedies on the market, but a little lard about the size of a pea rubbed thoroughly on the back of the head and neck is sufficient to rid the chick of these pests. This should be done after dusk on a dry, warm night. Previous to this the coop, hen or brooder should be thoroughly attended to.

FEED AND CARE OF CHICKENS

Department of Agriculture Has Issued Circular Which Will Be Found Important.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Now that hatch time is over in many sections, a circular over very shortly to be issued will be of great importance in feeding and caring for the youngsters. The department of agriculture at Washington issues a circular on "First Year of Baby Chickens," G. 30, which is very helpful.

In the Argentine Republic if a man engaged to marry best-state beyond a reasonable time in leading his fiancée to the altar is heavily fined.

SECOND CLASS TOWNSHIPS WILL GET STATE AID

HARRISBURG, July 23.—Gov. William C. Sproul has signed the bill providing for a system of State "rewards" to townships for the construction and improvement of township roads, and for the protection and construction of township bridges, in townships of the second class. An appropriation of $1,000,000 will be available beginning Dec. 1, 1919. The new law takes the place of that which provided for bonuses of 50 per cent. of the amount expended by townships for road work, not exceeding $20 per mile.

By the terms of the new law the State Highway Department will pay rewards when work by the township has been completed and inspected. Rewards will be granted by the Commonwealth for improvements of the following nature:

Grading and draining a section of road not less than half a mile long; graveling or underdraining a graded and drained road not less than half a mile in length; for macadamizing a road or for constructing a Telford macadam road not less than half a mile long; for constructing a concrete, brick or bituminous surfaced road of not less than a half mile in length; for the erection and construction of bridges three feet or more span, constructed of concrete or stone or a combination of concrete and stone, or a steel bridge with a floor constructed of materials approved by the State Highway Department; and for the purchase and installation of culvert and drain pipe.

The rewards are to equal 33 1/3 per cent. of the cost of the proposed improvements, not to exceed certain sums.

All of these rewards will be based on roads the improvement for which is to be a width not less than sixteen feet; and a corresponding reduction or addition in the amount of the reward will be made as the width of the improved road is increased or reduced; but no reward shall be made for the improvement of any road less than twelve feet wide.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

The committee appointed by the Curwensville Odd Fellows lodge early in the spring to look up a site for a building or a structure already completed by which a new home for the order could be made, have not reported on anything definite in the matter of their work as yet and no purchase has been consummated. It is believed that the building season is so far advanced at the present time that it would be inadvisable to purchase ground and start the erection of new quarters. Yet the committee have not given up their work by any means, and it is just possible that they may yet find a building already constructed that would suit their purpose admirably by making some alterations. Their present quarters, in the bank building while comfortable are inadequate to accommodate the lodge's large membership, and the degree team are handicapped in doing proficient work on account of being compelled to do the degrees in such a narrow space. The lodge in the years that it has occupied its present quarters has spent a round sum of money in fixing up and furnishing their rooms, and the membership realize that the lodge must soon have larger and more commodious home. The fact that no purchase has been made is not a matter of money, but of a suitable location for the erection of a hall or the purchase of a building that could be turned into suitable quarters by making alterations.

Some one either through malice toward the owner or for pure unadulterated cussedness, killed a valuable Holstein two-year-old bull belonging to Joseph Bunnell. The animal was out in pasture and probably was disturbed by no one. If the miscreant who used his gun too freely, can be discovered, Mr. Bunnell will certainly make it a red letter day in his calendar by forcing him to pay for the animal. There is a little too much of work of this nature being done in this end of the county and an example should be made of a few fellows who have made it a business of killing other people's cattle, sheep and hogs simply because the animals happen to trespass on ground owned by them.

Mr. and Mrs. George Straitor were made happy yesterday by the arrival of a fine boy baby at their home.

The Blain City ball club, with no fear of defeat in their minds, came to Curwensville yesterday afternoon to play the local club a game as per schedule. They were a husky lot and played the game with a vim and snap that surprised some of the local fellows who have been playing at it for years. For the first five innings neither club had the advantage of a score to its credit, but after that the Blain Cityites began to score until at the finish they had rounded out seven hard earned runs to Curwensville's three; hence the visitors returned home joyous that they had succeeded in being able to add another notch in their victorious stick. The game was the best one played on the home grounds this season, was hotly contested by both sides from start to finish. Thursday the home team will play Morrisdale at Athletic park, and this game promises to be as interesting as the one yesterday. As one fellow put it yesterday evening: "Morrisdale is not much of a town but the village is great on the national game of base ball and that the towns' team is coming with blood in its eye to carry back with them to those who were left behind, a pennant with victory written upon it."

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hile, at their home near town yesterday morning.

ing, a daughter, which adds considerable joy in the home of the young parents.

A small fire yesterday afternoon in the home of Louis Burndetti, north Pine street, brought out the fire department in a hurry, but arriving at the house found their presence was unnecessary as the flames had been put out and recourse to a water plug not in demand. One of the girls in the house was blacking the stove, in which the fire had not died out entirely. She was using black jack polish and says that it exploded starting the fire. In her efforts to put the fire out she was quite severely burned on the arms and hands. The damage to carpets and table linen was slight.

The Rescue Hose and Ladder company at a meeting held Monday evening voted to take part in the big coming Labor Day parade. The company will not only have a new fire truck in line but all of the old antiquated fire apparatus, uniforms, etc., that has accumulated in their department since the organization of the company in the year 1874.

Henry Heitenrather has purchased the "Busy Bee" restaurant from Si Richards, Jr., who has conducted the business for over a year, he having purchased the stock and goods of the place from Heitenrather, who wanted to enter other lines of business. Mr. Heitenrather took possession of his purchase on Monday and is now installed therein where he will welcome his old friends and any new ones who desire to enjoy a first class meal or lunch. He will still continue in the draying business, and those who are in need of his service along that line will find him at the restaurant or they can leave their order for work there.

Rev. Parkhill, wife and child, Lock Haven, motored up from their town river home and spent yesterday with Curwensville friends. Rev. Parkhill was, for several years, pastor of the Presbyterian church here prior to his removal to Lock Haven. The family were on their way to Canada, where they will spend their summer vacation, the Reverend gentleman putting in his time fishing.

Street Commissioner W. A. Dale and wife, Paul Dale and wife and Mrs. Daniel Newcomer, will leave this evening in Mr. Dale's car for Altoona where they will attend Methodist Day on Thursday.

Mrs. Verne Bloom returned to her home this place yesterday afternoon after spending a week at the old home farmhouse near Luthersburg.

George C. Fleming is confined to his home nursing a bad knee. "Pip" does not like his confinement a little bit and would much rather be over at the tannery rolling up flexibles. He has the sympathy of his working comrades who miss him considerably.

The finance committee for the big Labor Day celebration held a meeting in the public building last evening, at which time progress was reported as to the raising of that $2000.

To the Woman Who "Never Has Any Luck Putting Up Fruit and Berries"

How even a Beginner can be Sure of Perfect Results in Making Jams, Jellies and Preserves

Good home preserving is now easy to accomplish. Even the housewife who "never has any luck" with all sugar preserving can put up fruit perfectly if she will first make her preserving syrup with ½ Karo (Red Label) and ½ sugar—instead of sugar alone.

By this method you can always have the finest, most delicious jams, good clear jellies, and preserves with a rich, heavy syrup. Karo is a fine, clear syrup, with a natural affinity for the fruit juices.

It blends the fruit with the sugar, doing away with one of the great difficulties of putting up fruit at home; and just about cutting the work in half.

You can depend on it that fruit put up by this method will never grow tough or "candy" in the glass.

For Cooking, Baking and Candy Making Karo (Red Label) is used in millions of homes. In all cooking and baking recipes use Karo instead of sugar. It is sweet, of delicate flavor, and brings out the natural flavor of the food.

FREE The experienced housewife as well as the beginner will find unusual interest in the new sixty-eight page Corn Products Cook Book. Beautifully illustrated—and suggestions galore for preserving, etc. It is free—write us today for it.

Corp. Weeks was decorated for extraordinary heroism in action near Bellefleur, France, September 30 and October 8, 1918. Corp. Weeks, on the morning of September 30, when two enemy machine guns were making a part of the line untenable, advanced across open ground upon one of these guns, rushed the position alone, captured the gun and five of the enemy and shot down the sixth, who endeavored to escape. By this gallant act, Corp. Weeks prevented the enemy from enfilading our position and thereby saved the lives of many of his comrades. In a later advance while tending his men in an attack upon an enemy machine gun nest, Corp. Weeks was killed. His home was at Colleton, S. C.

OBITUARY

OLD RESIDENT DIES

Edwin E. Reed died at his home on West Fifth avenue at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, July 22d, after an illness extending over several years, aged 60 years, 3 months and 7 days.

The deceased was a son of the late John C. Reed, and was born and raised in Clearfield. He learned carpentering with his father and followed that trade until he met with an accident at Brick Works No. 2 some nine years ago, at which time he suffered a broken back. He had been an invalid since that time. He was an industrious, upright man and possessed a wide circle of friends.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, John, of Woodland, and Harry, of DuBois. He is also survived by three sisters and four brothers, as follows:—Mrs. Ashley Thorn, Mrs. G. P. Drew and Mrs. Johnson Horn, of Clearfield; William, of Portland, Oregon; John W., of Houtdale, and Dr. Elliot B., of Long Beach, California.

He was a consistent member of the Lutheran church and his pastor Rev. C. W. Baker, will conduct the funeral services at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in Hillcrest cemetery.

EPISCOPAL MEN'S OUTING

On Monday afternoon thirty men of St. Andrew's P. E. church placed themselves in the hands of Dean Bloom and hid themselves to the tail and went for an outing—without the "women."

The weatherman was most unkind and the original outing place had to be foregone but Dean made good and a suitable location was found.

There was a hall game that lasted long enough to make eighteen men about as sore, physically, as novices could be. Then there were the cats. Mac, of ice cream fame, who had been duly appointed as Lord High Pillor of the Inner Man, had prepared a host of good things to eat and his fried chicken disappeared like the fog talked about sixth month frost.

After the cats there were some good talks, and Mac's choice of cigars was roasted to a turn. The men returned home between showers saying that, for once, they had a good time, had something good to eat, and without enlisting the aid of "Ere."

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mrs. L. S. Kennedy, of 1703 Seventh avenue, Altoona, entertained the members of the July Eight club at her home Monday evening. Dancing and music were enjoyed and during the course of the evening the engagement of her sister Miss Isobel Ross, of Clearfield to Boyd Murray of Portage was announced, the wedding to take place in September. Refreshments were served at a late hour. Those present were Misses Marian Rutter, Mildred Shaffer, Anetta Slep, Martha Cook, Martha Robb, Lois Russell, L. S. Kennedy.

HOBART LEIPOLD HOME

Hobart Leipold, son of the late Dr. B. E. Leipold, who was recently mustered out of Uncle Sam's army after more than eighteen months' service over seas, arrived in Clearfield Tuesday and is a guest at the home of his uncle, Dr. F. D. Leipold, on West Walnut street. Hobart was in a cavalry regiment and made quite a record for himself in the service.

LEONARD LOOKING FOR OPPONENT TO STAGE A BATTLE

By H. C. HAMILTON

(United Press Staff Correspondent).
 NEW YORK, July 23.—Efforts are now being made to smoke up a match for Benny Leonard, the world's lightweight champion.

Leonard has pounded himself into the unenviable class where Johnny Kilbane stood so long. He has whipped so many of the better lightweight that there are very few left for him. Only a few matches remain.

Billy Gibson is a very careful and shrewd manager of the champion's fortunes. It was Gibson who prepared Leonard for the effort that brought him the championship, and it is Gibson who is guiding so surely the destinies of the young champion.

Gibson believes he will have a hard time convincing the public that there is anything left for Leonard to do. He wants to send the champion against Lew Tendler, the Philadelphiaan, but it is easy to believe Gibson's statement that Tendler is side-stepping the match because he is in deadly fear of being knocked out and thus knocking in the head his ideas of making a lot of money meeting the best of those under the champion.

Tendler is holding out for a meeting with Leonard at 133 pounds the afternoon before the fight, because he thinks Leonard cannot do the limit set years ago by the older battlers. Gibson claims Leonard can and will when the necessity arises.

"I know Leonard is pretty big right now," said Gibson. "He betters 140 and it is pretty good work when he gets under 135 for a bout. But I can take enough weight off his legs by putting rubber clothing on them to bring him well within the limit Tendler wants. Leonard can beat Tendler at that weight and if the inducement is sufficient, he will undertake it. I do not believe Tendler really wants the match."

Gibson has grown very sweet on Joe Benjamin, a lightweight he brot east on his last trip to the Pacific coast. He declares that Benjamin some day will be lightweight champion, although he flinches if a suggestion is made that Benjamin is good enough now to defeat the champion.

"Of course not," he declares. "There isn't a lightweight in the country who has a chance with Leonard. Benjamin is not ready yet to go into such a heavy brawl, but the time is coming some of these days when Benjamin will have to meet Leonard or Leonard will have to drop the title, through age or loss of desire to fight. Then, I believe, it will be Benjamin who will win. He's a comer."

The Tendler match, despite all the talk being made over it, probably will come off some time in the fall in a Jersey ring. And it is not probable that Gibson and Leonard will allow the Philadelphia youth to dictate terms. Leonard probably will decide to enter the ring at 135 pounds—his usual stipulation.

CAPITAL RACE RIOTS QUELLED BY APPLICATION OF MILITARY RULE

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Order has been restored by troops, under the leadership of Major General Haan who is in charge of the administration of martial law at the capital city. The situation is regarded as better than at any time since the rioting broke out several days ago. No mobs are permitted to form any place and everybody must keep moving. Each policeman is supported on his beat by two armed soldiers and troops are posted at every point where there is any likelihood of riots. Two thousand soldiers are patrolling the city and there are also several hundred marines, provost guards and sailors on the police force.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Wilson took a hand in the race riots and as a result the capital is under martial law. The President was prompted to act by the frenzied violence of mobs last night and early this morning. With four men dead, a dozen or more wounded, and scores in the hospitals because of injuries, Washington seems today to the realization that "martial law" policy of local officials, who have been unable to cope with the situation, could not continue.

A major general is therefore in charge of the army forces while armed soldiers, sailors and marines are patrolling the streets in all sections of the city, where rioting prevailed. The President sent for Secretary Baker late yesterday afternoon and after the conference, the latter announced that Major General William Haan, who just returned from France, would be in charge of the military. The provost guard has been greatly augmented by troops brought here hurriedly from Camp Meade, Md., and Quantico, Va. There was an ominous turn to the situation, however, in the announcement of another attack by a negro on a white woman—the seventh in the past three weeks. Assaults on white women by various blacks started the trouble which began Saturday and has raged continuously since, reaching fever height last night.

A posse is now searching for this negro, and word of the attack on the woman, a Mrs. Nightengale, of Capital Heights, has been published in the newspapers.

Trouble, with renewed violence because of the death list and the actions on the part of negroes in their own section may again break out. In some of the negro sections the following placards were posted: "White folks, better stay in your houses tonight if you don't want trouble."

The plausible neglect on the part of the police has allowed hundreds of negroes to purchase firearms, and automobiles filled with blacks, armed to the teeth and looking for trouble, have been in evidence because of the failure to put a stop to the sale of firearms. The police have said they lacked authority, yet stores refused to sell revolvers this afternoon.

Police headquarters were alive with wild stories all afternoon and the entire city seething with unrest. It was reported at one time that automobiles, driven by negroes, had gone to Baltimore to purchase supplies and ammunition.

At 7 last night when the streets in the downtown section of the city began to fill with crowds, as on the three preceding evenings, a troop of cavalry with the riders bearing their rifles in full view, filed slowly down Pennsylvania avenue. Motor lorries, with jacks carrying night sticks and side arms, also parade the main streets of the town, while marines and infantry, carrying their own arms, marched up the side streets, prepared to take their stations for the night.

Grand Jury Will Issue Chicago "Blump" Accident

CHICAGO, ILL., July 23.—A grand jury investigation with a possibility of indictment and a decision to fix the blame for the "blump" disaster here on Monday afternoon when twelve persons were killed and the rest of the crowd injured in the Chicago catastrophe.

State Attorney Byrne has released all witnesses except Mr. Rootner, pilot of the dirigible "Wingfoot" and W. C. Young, aeronautical expert of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, owners of the craft. Rootner and Young are not booked on any charge but are detained for a further hearing.

Each of these men refused to testify at the recent hearing on the advice of their attorneys on the ground that by testifying they might incriminate themselves.

The latest theory as to the cause of the disaster is that sparks from the rotary engine on the dirigible ignited the gas bag on the port side of the craft or that possibly a back fire from the engine ignited some waste petrol.

Funerals of several of the victims were held today. Officials of the bank where the girls and men were killed are said to have arranged relief for these families whose incomes are depleted by the loss of life and it is also understood that the Goodyear company has sent a representative here to render any relief needed.

Conflicting Thoughts

PRESIDENT TAKES RESPONSIBILITY FOR SHANTUNG

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Wilson, in conversation with Republican senators admitted sole responsibility for the Shantung settlement.

The senators were told that Lloyd George and Clemenceau refused to participate in discussion of Japan's claim of Shantung because of the secret treaty which England and France had made with Japan covering the settlement of the Japanese demands.

Thereupon, it was stated, the entire matter of appeasing Japan and satisfying her demands for territorial aggression was turned over to the President. Senators were told that the President negotiated the settlement with Japan representatives and agreed to give Shantung to the empire. The terms of settlement were then submitted to the other members of the Big Five for approval.

This is the first time that this big secret of the peace conference has been told. It made a profound impression upon the senators to whom it was revealed. They were senators who had been summoned by the President to the White House to listen to reasons why the treaty should be ratified without alterations or amendments. The President also gave some of the reasons why Japan's claims to Shantung were agreed to. One of the most important of those was that Japan had been exceedingly backward about entering the war on the side of the allies. The secret treaties with England and France were negotiated as a bait to Japan to get in and help drive the Germans out of China. It was not until after England and France had agreed to support Japan's claims to large slices of China's territory that Japan did come in.

WOODLAND MACHINE GUNNER BECOMES A BENEVOLENT

Dorsey M. Polkinghorn, of Woodland, and Miss Charlotte H. Senner were quietly married at noon today by the Rev. John C. Collins, of the Evangelical Methodist Episcopal church. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Senner, on Dorey street. None but the immediate families and very close friends of the contracting parties were present.

Following the ceremony and congratulations an elegant wedding dinner was served and the happy couple left on the 1:15 Pennsylvania train for a tour of the eastern cities.

The groom is one of Woodland's finest young men and served over seas with the 28th Division as a member of the original Boal Machine Gun Company. His bride is a charming young lady, who was employed as a saleslady at Kurtz Bros. and the A. W. Leonardson stores. They have a whole host of friends who wish them all the joys of a happy wedded life.

Pennsylvania has over 3,500,000 persons engaged in gainful occupations.

BAIL FIXED AT $2000 IN JOHNSON CASE

A habeas corpus hearing was held in the case of Com. vs. Walter C. Johnson, the DuBois young man charged with criminally assaulting Miss Olive Korb, of Union township, near Rockton on Sunday, July 13th, last.

Miss Korb was called to the stand and while very much embarrassed told the court and attorneys interested the story of the assault. She identified Johnson as he sat in the court room with his wife.

On cross-examination Attorney Gleason, who represented Johnson, had the witness admit that when Johnson was brought to her home the night of his arrest three days following the commission of the crime, she said she "guessed he looked like the man".

Constable Joseph Leslie of Union township, who made the arrest, followed Miss Korb upon the stand and testified regarding the locality where the assault occurred.

District Attorney Arnold then moved that Johnson be held for trial and Judge Bell remanded him back to jail in default of $2000 bail.

SEES MORE SENATORS ON TREATY

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee hastened its reading of the text of the peace treaty today to make time for the open hearing on the covenant and for the interrogation of Secretary Lansing who has just returned from Paris.

The President conferred today with several Republican senators getting their viewpoint on the treaty and league.

The league debate cooled down considerably today on the Senate floor, Senator McKellar, of Tennessee being the only member who will take the floor on the problem.

Senator Kenyon will take the floor on the agricultural bill and take a few flings at the packers for attempting to dictate the terms of the agricultural measure.

President Wilson will conclude his conference with Republican senators before starting on his cross country trip. If he sees all the senators this will consume at least two weeks although Mr. Tumulty stated today that "there is no assurance that he will see all the senators." Mr. Wilson is not considering calling off the trip as was reported.

ENFORCEMENT BILL GOES TO SENATE FOR LONG STAY

NEW YORK, July 23.—The prohibition enforcement measure passed by the House yesterday went to the subcommittee of the Senate today. The chairman of the subcommittee has announced that he will oppose any effort to alter the provision which declares that liquor containing over one half of one per cent. alcohol is intoxicating liquor. He will also oppose any amendment providing for search of homes and confiscation of private stocks. Many senators fear that the House measure is too severe. There is little hope that the Senate will act on the amendment before the latter part of August as it is not expected that they will take it up until the peace treaty has been disposed of.

The prohibition enforcement bill, as it passed the House, provides, after January 28, 1920:

Every person, permitted under the law to have liquor in his possession, shall report the quantity and kind to the commissioners of internal revenue. (This applies to chemists, physicians, etc.)

After February 1, 1920: The possession of any liquor, other than as authorized by the law, shall be prima facie evidence that it is being kept for sale or otherwise in violation of the law.

It will not be required, however, to report, and it will not be illegal to have in one's possession liquor in a private dwelling while the same is occupied and used by the possessor as his private dwelling, and the liquor is used for personal consumption by the owner, his family, or his guests.

The possessor of such liquors, however, bears the burden of proof that the liquor was acquired and is possessed lawfully.

Intoxicating liquor is defined as a beverage containing more than one-half per cent. of alcohol.

Any house, boat, vehicle or other place where liquor is manufactured or sold is declared a nuisance. No person shall manufacture, sell, barter, give away, transport, import, export, deliver, furnish or receive any intoxicating liquors.

Liquor for non-beverage purposes, and wine for sacramental use may be

ALWAYS A GRAIN OF SAND IN THE OIL

Certain tradesmen in Clearfield have taken the lead in closing their place of business on Thursday afternoon in order that all employees might have an opportunity to have healthful recreation or rest during the hot season when standing behind the counter becomes irksome. Employers of store help appreciate the fact that on account of the Saturday night work these employees are deserving of this consideration and readily assent to closing their place of business one afternoon each week in order that their employees may come to their posts of duty fresh and eager for the Friday and Saturday rush.

Unity of action is hard to get however and the various committees who have worked on this proposition from year to year always have their work obstructed by one or two merchants who are too selfish to shut their eyes to the unfair opportunity presented to them to keep open while other stores are closed and snatch that precious little piece of business which is available.

If all the stores close there will be no loss of business and no loss of profits. If all but one of the stores close there will be an appreciable loss in business and the one who keeps his store open will be classed in a class by himself and who is there who would envy him his position?

The shoppers of Clearfield will back up the store men who take the right course. There is always a little fly in the ointment, a little sand in the oil. Why let a little insignificant pebble hold up the whole works?

SPROUL KILLS RAMSEY BILL

The Ramsey bill, passed after a lively career in the Legislature as a means of permitting the sale of beer and liquors containing less than 2 3-4 per cent of alcohol, was announced as vetoed by Governor Sproul today with the declaration that it would be "the limit of futility", and that, in view of the national law which is being passed, it would be a dead letter soon after it got upon the statute books of Pennsylvania.

The Governor says in regard to the Ramsey bill:

"This bill purports to be an act to enforce the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States by prohibiting the manufacture, sale and transportation within the commonwealth of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes and defining the term 'intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes.'"

"The Legislature in this bill has endeavored to define the meaning of the words 'intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes' by providing that they mean all vinous, spirituous, malt or brewed liquors, or any admixture thereof, for beverage purposes when they contain more than 2 3-4 per cent. of alcohol by weight at a temperature of 60 degrees above zero, Fahrenheit. Whether such an alcoholic content as thus defined is or is not intoxicating is a question of fact as to which there seems to be some difference of opinion. This bill further provides in substance that, although a beverage with such an alcoholic content may in fact be intoxicating, it shall be considered non-intoxicating. Such a provision might open a very wide door to evasions of the law, as the legislation now rapidly passing through the Federal Congress fixes an alcoholic content very much less than that prescribed by this bill, and as the Federal law when passed will be supreme it would be the limit of futility for this commonwealth to put upon its statute books an act which would be a dead letter as soon as the Federal government shall have spoken upon the subject."

Why We Welcome Small Accounts

Many people believe that a bank does not want small accounts.

In such accounts, however, the profits are mutual.

The bank that encourages small accounts often sees them grow into large ones.

The possession of a bank account inspires the depositor to saving habits and teaches him to be business-like.

We are glad to serve the small depositor, believing his connection with the bank will benefit both him and ourselves.

LITERARY DIGEST "DADDIES" THIS 16 EGG A DAY STORY OF "BIDDIE"

Can a hen, can any hen—no matter how peppy and ambitious—lay thirteen eggs without getting off the nest, all in one day? Don't all speak at once. Many people who said things exactly like those who are now tempted to say have come to regard a well-brown hen of West Salem, Wisconsin, "with awe and reverence." They came to scoff (and remained to admit) that Gus Rhodes, White Rock hen was some hen, as it were. She—it is not fitting to speak of such a biddy as "it"—has been called "The Machine Gun Pullet," or "The Magazine Hen." Affidavits are on file as to her prowess, and she is honored in her own country of West Salem no matter what a crude outside world may think of her championship of the world is advanced in this wise by the La Crosse (Wisconsin) Tribune and Leader-Press:

With a record of 151 eggs in one month and 77 of these produced in a single week, a three-year-old White Rock hen owned by Gus Rhodes, prosperous La Crosse valley farmer living one mile east of West Salem, Wis., claims the egg-laying championship of the world.

Poultrymen who scoffed at the story when Mr. Rhodes first announced that he was getting from three to six eggs per day from one hen, and others who have visited the farm during the last week and watched the hen perform on the nest have ceased to laugh when this White Rock's achievements are mentioned. In all seriousness they are willing to take oath that the hen is delivering the goods—exactly as represented.

At first questioning the record of the hen's laying proclivities during the month of May when it was kept by Mrs. Rhodes, the skeptics some or whom were on the premises when the hen last Monday laid sixteen eggs in a period of ten hours, now regard the remarkable chicken with a feeling of awe or reverence.

And after J. H. Benson, La Crosse poultry farmer who went to the Rhodes farm and camped in the barn with the chicken for two days, appeared in the office of County Judge John Brindley and made affidavit that he saw the hen lay thirteen of those sixteen eggs in one sitting of four hours, without stopping to eat, drink, or even cackle, the skeptics are willing to accept as a verity the daily egg-laying record submitted by Mr. Rhodes since Mrs. White Rock set out to establish a new world's record. Here it is:

May 3, four eggs; May 4, three; May 5, four; May 6, five; May 8, four; May 9, three.

The hen laid no more eggs until May 20, when she started in with five; Her record for the balance of the month follows: May 20, five; May 21, none; May 22, six; May 23, four; May 24, seven; May 25, four; May 26, nine; May 27, nine; May 28, eleven; May 29, ten; May 30, fourteen; May 31, fourteen; June 1, one; June 2, sixteen; June 3, eleven; June 4, one.

Mrs. White Rock is an exclusive hen. From the first day when she started in her record egg-laying career, she has refused to ray unless admitted to the barn.

Mr. Rhodes' attention was first attracted to the hen in April, when on several days at noon he found the bird hovering around the barn door awaiting a chance to enter the building when the horses were put in for the noon-day feeding.

And each day that the hen was admitted to the barn, he found in the evening from two to six eggs in the manger. But there never was more than one hen in the building. Right there Mrs. White Rock began to get famous.

"Still I was afraid to tell my neighbors, for I knew they would laugh and I could hardly believe it myself," said Mr. Rhodes. "To be sure we were right, I began to watch the hen. When I saw her lay three and four eggs at one sitting I knew the time had come to begin to do a little crowing myself, and I told my neighbors and people in the village and invited them to come and see for themselves."

"J. H. Benson came out from La Crosse early last Sunday and watched the hen constantly all day. There were hundreds of persons here during the day, and I suppose the excitement had its effect for the hen laid only one egg. Mr. Benson decided to stay over night and watch the hen another day. And he certainly watched her. When the hen clambered into the nest finally Monday, Mr. Peterson sat down in a rocking chair in the barn near by and never took his eyes off the nest until the chicken finally arose four hours later and hopped down onto the barn floor."

"Mr. Benson found the hen had laid in this one sitting fourteen eggs. Later in the day she laid two more eggs, but Benson was gone. He went to the village to tell about it, I guess. He didn't return to the farm."

This White Rock hen is a large bird, but not of unusual size, although her posterior quarters are larger than found on any other chicken in a large flock on the farm. She is fat and docile, a voracious eater when off the nest and consumes a large amount of grain. Mr. Rhodes believes the hen is three years old, although he is not positive on this score.

The eggs laid by this hen are of normal size have full hard shells and single yolks. A number of the eggs have been used for setting purposes, under other hens, and all have been found to be fertile.

La Crosse people won't believe it. West Salem does.

A few from this city are convinced that it is O. K.

J. H. Benson, La Crosse chicken fancier on Wednesday afternoon appeared before Judge Brindley on the county court where he took an oath that he had watched the hen lay fourteen eggs in one day.

His affidavit follows:

"I, J. H. Benson, being first duly sworn on oath to tell the truth and nothing but the truth concerning the miraculous production of eggs by a certain hen on the Gus Rhodes farm one and one-half miles east of the village of West Salem, La Crosse county, says: My name is J. H. Benson and I live in the city of La Crosse, Wisconsin, at 228 North Twentieth street.

The first time I visited the Rhodes farm was on the 29th day of May, 1919. I arrived at 7 o'clock in the morning. Between that time and three o'clock in the afternoon of the same day the hen laid three (3) eggs. I next visited the farm on the first day of June 1919. I got there at 3 o'clock in the afternoon same day and stayed all night. I went to the hen house about 7 o'clock in the morning. I saw the hen jump from her roosting pole down on the floor and as she lit she dropped an egg (laid an egg). I saw the hen (same hen) go from the hen-roost to the barn where I made a nest for her in the barn in a box. She went on the nest at 10 o'clock that forenoon. From that time until noon she laid two (2) more eggs and was on the nest when I went to dinner. Before I went to dinner I got some fine wire screen and securely covered her so no other hen could get into the nest with her. When I got back to her nest from dinner there was no more eggs in the nest. I took off the screen and watched her diligently until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, same day, when she, the hen, got off her nest and I counted thirteen (13) eggs in the nest all laid by this same hen and normal in size. There was not at any time another hen in the barn. If anyone had put an egg in that nest I would have seen them do so and I solemnly swear that no person did put an egg in that nest and that no other hen had access to the nest or the barn. At noon that day Mr. Rhodes and his son helped me put the wire screen over the hen when I went to dinner; aside from that time no other people were in the barn that day while I was there until 3 o'clock in the afternoon when I left for home.

"I am the only man in the world who has seen a hen lay 13 eggs without getting off the nest, all in one day," said Mr. Benson.

New Version of Sport Styles

Just what will happen next to sports clothes is a fascinating subject for speculation. The new weaves in silk have intrigued them into beautiful extravagances, and other unusual fabrics have lent them originality. All sorts of materials, from leather to oiled flannel, with a company of sturdy wools forming their main dependence, invite designers to become independent. Cleverness is a premium, nothing is considered erratic and there are sports clothes and sports clothes; some of them for actual sports wear and some of them merely versions of sport styles.

For actual sports wear, coats and skirts of wool, or heavy cotton, are plain and cut on boyish lines. Skirts wide enough and patch pockets big enough are their sensible outstanding features. The sweater and sweater coat in greater variety than ever, reappear, entitled to more service stripes than any other garment. One of the new, short slip-on models occupies the center in the group of three sports costumes pictured here. This is a very popular model and is made in many, gay and brilliant colors. At the left of the picture is a very handsome suit reveals a plaid skirt of silk in which a plain satin stripe and a crepe stripe alternate, the satin stripe in white and the other in light green. The jacket, of white tulle, has a quilted pattern on the collar and cuffs, and forming a border at the bottom, having the stitching done in green silk thread. Stitching covers the narrow belt and defines the pocket, proving a very original and beautiful embellishment.

Rushanara, crepe makes the unusual dress at the right of the picture. It has a straight panel at the back but achieves the effect of a loose cut-away coat at the front, with daring sleeves that are split up the back. Crepe georgette is used in facings that extend beyond the edges of the sleeves and coat drapery. It took audacity to add a sash of the same material as the dress, to this design, but it is here and vindicates its presence by finishing perfectly a smart and comfortable sports dress.

Correspondent Hargraves Tells of Life on The Great British Dirigible-- Take Pride in Their Work

EDITOR'S NOTE:—W. R. Hargraves, United Press Correspondent, who covered the flight of the Nancie from the Azores, was commissioned to write about life on board the R-34. Here is his story.

By W. R. HARGRAVES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, July 23.—"The British never break a promise." This statement by Commander G. H. Scott, of the British dirigible R-34, explained my visit to the interior of the giant airship during her stay at Mineola. Only two male civilians boarded the ship for inspection and my permission to do so was granted as the result of a promise made on the first day of her arrival.

Thus it is possible for the United Press to give the first details of the living and working accommodations on the aircraft as seen through a landsman's eyes.

In spite of what may appear to be hardships and discomforts, perils and privations there were none of the thirty members of the crew who failed to express the same admiration for her that is felt by those who have become accustomed to travel on certain steamships.

"Of course the quarters are rather cramped and the conditions under which we live are unusual," said Lieut. R. D. Durrant, the radio operator, "but it is a splendid thing to feel that one is part of a new transportation development—and then, too, it is our duty to our country to further her interests."

This is the spirit that kept the officers and crew cheerful during their 108-hour trip westward, when weather conditions of unprecedented violence an atmospheric changes of unusual variety made life on the dirigible anything but rosy.

One of the greatest drawbacks to life on the R-34, perhaps, is the lack of space in which to exercise. Although there is a "board walk" 600 feet long running the length of the ship along its keel, this is only 9 inches wide and as I walked it, cat-like, I could not help wondering what might happen if some of the crew took an over-dose of the rum ration allowed all members of the British navy, on sea or in air, and tried to walk it off.

Before boarding the ship, which was constantly in motion through the action of the wind, although held down by hundreds of men, my shoes, hat and all matches were taken from me. This was to prevent the danger of creating sparks through friction from the nails in shoes. The removal of my hat was no doubt to prevent me dashing after it should it be blown off. A step over the side of the 9-inch walk would land one on the thin linen fabric which covers the aluminum frame, thence through it into the thin air below.

The dirigible is about 640 feet long and is cigar shaped. The framework is of massive aluminum girders welded together similar to the structural frame of a steel skyscraper. This frame is covered with prepared linen, like that used on airplanes, and within the body thus formed are the sixteen "gas" bags, sleeping quarters, petrol tanks, water ballast and drinking water. The navigating quarters and engines are in the gondolas which hang below.

The petrol tanks which supply fuel to the engines by gravity flow, are located beside the narrow walk and are held by clutches like ice tongs, which can be quickly opened to drop the tanks overboard if necessary.

On either side of the narrow walk are hung fine-spun hammocks, strung from cross bars of the aluminum frame. If one of the air-gobs or officers should become restless in sleep and roll out, he would fall through the fabric which cradles the frame, and make a swift descent to land or sea. Tied to each hammock is a deflated rubber life-preserver and a silk parachute. In case of a great emergency, as fire, or imminent destruction through other causes, the life belt is inflated and the parachute hooked to a ring in a rope belt always worn. To make a safe exit, thus prepared for descent, the wearer must jump upon a circle in the linen fabric which has been cut out and replaced, held by a soft gum. This gives way, and permits him to fall through, leaving a clean, round opening instead of a tear.

These "ports" are located just beneath the aluminum petrol tanks, of which there are 81, each weighing 500 pounds and each containing 70 gallons. Sixteen of them are fixed and the remainder are called slip tanks. Should occasion require rapid ascent or immediate decrease of weight for flight, the slip tanks are released from their fastenings and drop on and through the holes.

The only light in the living quarters is that which filters through the green-painted linen, an uncanny and continual gloom of dusk. At night hand electric lights are used and when the watches are changed, every four hours, these lights are used to signal the approach of one of the crew along the walk should another member be coming from the opposite direction. There are no turn-outs on this narrow-gauge walk.

Amidships is the "dining hall" or "grand salon," or whatever a facetious officer may choose to call it. It is simply a widening out of the walk, the floor space at that point measuring about 10 by 15 feet. Here there are six hinged tables and a tiny washstand, also three tanks of distilled drinking water, each containing seventy gallons.

At mess time half of the crew off duty can squeeze into this space and eat their prepared and previously cooked food, buffet style. There are no chairs on the ship. Roasts, stews, and potatoes, a limited variety of vegetables, coffee or cocoa comprise the meals. They are heated when wanted on appliances attached to the engine exhaust pipes. Obviously there is no after-meal cigar or cigaret enjoyed aboard.

One can stand upright traversing the length of the ship except near the bow and stern, where the gas bags are nearer the bottom of the huge envelope. There are eighteen hydrogen gas compartments within the shell, with a capacity of 2,000,000 cubic feet. Forward and aft there is a long perpendicular ladder, extending upward between bags and reaching to the roof. The observer is obliged to scale this narrow and wiggly aluminum affair whenever he wants to "take a shot" at the sun in making observations. I got half way up but the gas fumes, increased by the fact that the Blimp was being held to earth, forced me down precipitately in utter disregard to the dents made in the soles of my stocking feet by the sharp metal rounds of the ladder.

In the extreme stern, modern sanitary arrangements are arranged. Hanging below the bag are four "gondolas," or cars, one under the bow, two sided by side amidships, and one under the stern. The forward gondola contains the "bridge" and chart room and navigators' quarters, as well as the wireless room, and forward engine.

The navigating and pilot room, about six feet wide and ten feet long, is the last word in completeness of navigation appliances. By means of speaking tubes and bells, all parts of the ship are controlled from this room. It is through this room that the ship is boarded from the ground, access above being via another aluminum ladder.

The two gondolas amidships, reached from the "envelope" by small ladders, each contain a single engine worked by two men. The after gondola has two engines and one propeller.

When the R-34 silently nosed her way on to the field at Mineola, there were comparatively few to receive her, the landing crew having been rushed 100 miles away to where it was believed she would be forced to land. She hovered around, however, with an almost human appearance of hesitancy, as though she were looking for a comfortable place to lie down. Finally, after circling a few times, coming lower by ejecting water ballast and through rudders, she slowed down near the spot chosen and heaved an anchor overboard for all the world like the Leviathan coming to a stop in New York bay. She then winched herself down to an elevation that permitted the ropes dangling from her to be grasped by a hastily collected "landing party" of more than three hundred men.

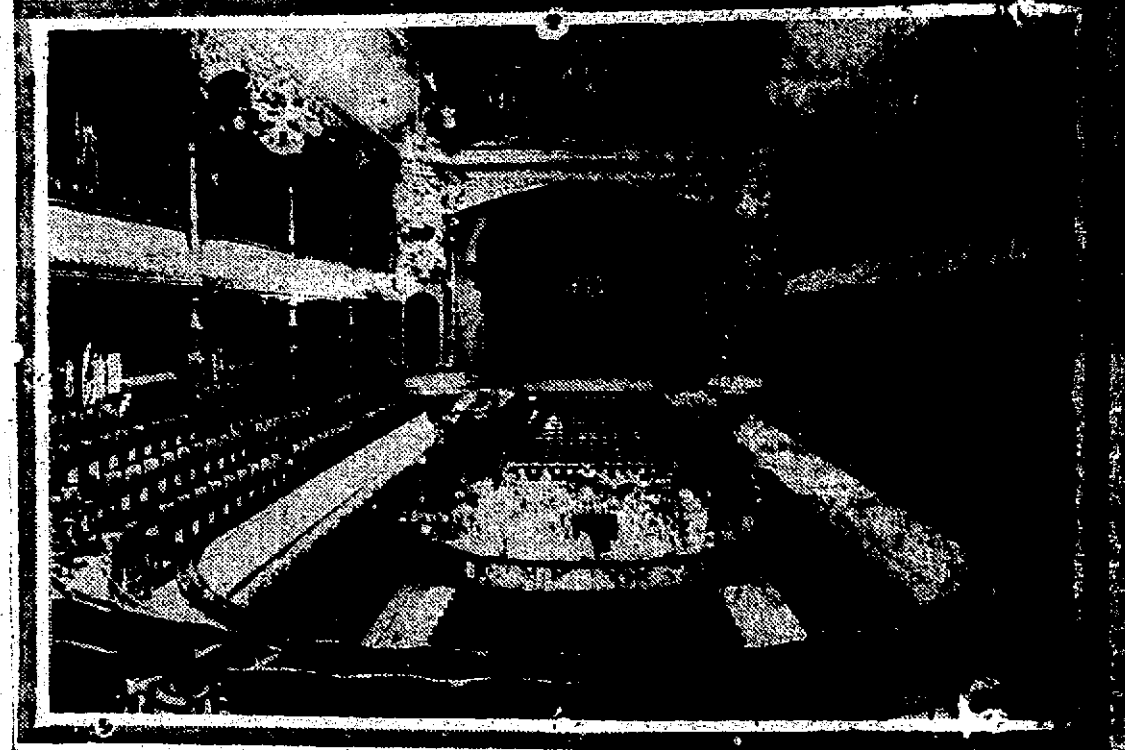

One feature of the mammoth airship that seemed to impress many of the thousands who saw her, was the peculiar silence which seemed to mark her departure. This silence, of course, did not apply to the throngs, but to the monster, as she gracefully and majestically raised her head and slipped swiftly upward and away into the night.

Our Business Plan Changes Saturday, August 2nd.

A FRANK STATEMENT

Twenty-two years ago we started this business with an idea of making not only a living, but a little more. We have made an ordinary profit as grocery profits go. We have bought carefully, watched stocks closely, sold to the best advantage. We have kept expenses down to a minimum. And yet—our net profit is an imaginary thing. We cast up our accounts and realize that to find an actual net profit is an utter impossibility.

The reasons for this condition are apparent. Our book accounts—good, bad and indifferent from a credit standpoint—represent thousands of dollars we should have to our credit in the bank as the result of our years of painstaking care in the conduct of this business. Our delivery trucks, their initial cost and the continual cost of upkeep and operation, represent a sum far beyond the conception of anyone not familiar with the situation.

All these things force us to one end. With the unsettled conditions that exist today we find it necessary to make a radical change in our business plan in order to survive.

To this end our books will close to all credit customers on Tuesday, July 29th at closing time.

The store will be closed for three days for rearrangement of stocks and prices and when we open on Saturday, August 2nd, this business will be conducted on an absolute and positive cash-and-carry-plan.

The same high standard of quality and store service will prevail. Prices will be consistently low with our new plan. We will conduct this store on a mutually profitable basis.

We'll both save.

The most talked of boy in these United States about ten years ago dropped into Clearfield last evening and spent the night quietly at The Dime. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Whitla and Billy, their son, were automobiling thru this section yesterday and stopped to rest at Clearfield's fine hotel and visit with Mrs. Thomas H. Murray and daughter who are old friends.

Helen Boyle, the kidnapper, was released from the penitentiary on parole just a few weeks ago, having served out her ten year sentence, while the husband, who was given a life term, is still in the "pen".

Keep Uric Acid Out Of Joints

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts, put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

MAXIMUM SEED CROP IS URGED

Seeding of 1918 Was Lost in Many Sections of Country on Account of Drought.

CONTROL OF CLOVER FLOWER

Best Method is to Destroy Larvae of First Brood—Adults Do Not Live Very Long—Watch Horses Pasturing on Alsike.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

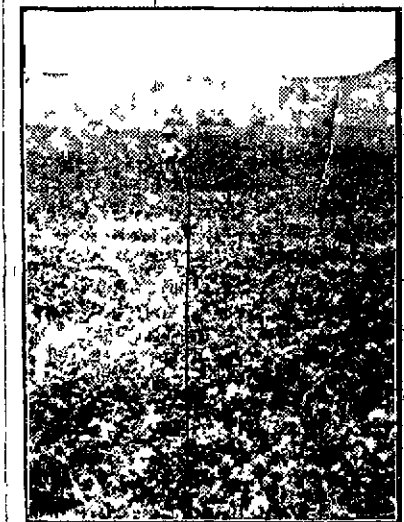

Even if there should be a good season for clover, the crop of seed cannot be as large as the country needs, because the seeding of 1918 was lost in a great many sections through drought. It is desirable, therefore, that a maximum seed crop be produced if possible. The method of controlling this clover flower midge is to destroy the larvae of the first brood. The adults that have lived over winter will lay their eggs in the flowers of the first crop of red clover. These adults do not live very long, and if the first crop can be kept from producing bloom when the adults are flying, or if the blooms can be cut before the larvae mature there will be very few, if any, adults to attack the second or seed crop of red clover. Details in regard to this matter can be found in Farmers' Bulletin 971.

Seed From June Clover.

It is sometimes desired to get seed from the first crop of June clover, and this may be done by pasturing the clover heavily enough to keep down the bloom until the latter part of May. At this time the stock may be taken off; and in that case, the June clover will seed at about the same time as the mammoth usually does. However, the common practice is to take a crop of hay and allow the second crop to make seed. When this plan is followed, care will have to be taken to control the clover-flower midge in accordance with the instructions found in Farmers' Bulletin 971.

Danger in Alsike.

During this month, also, farmers pasturing their horses on alsike clover should keep watch of their animals.

A Good Field of Timothy and Clover Hay, With a Large Part of Clover.

Especially those having white faces and white feet. A number of instances have been reported where horses have been poisoned by eating alsike clover. These instances have been numerous enough to show that alsike clover has a detrimental effect at certain stages of its development. Unfortunately, nothing is known yet as to the reason of this effect but the fact that it does occur is sufficiently well established to warrant a warning on the part of the department. When horses feeding on alsike clover are observed to have sores around the face and mouth, they should be immediately taken off the alsike clover and put upon hay or a grass pasture. This will cure the difficulty.

RIDDING CHICKS OF VERMIN

Little Piece of Lard Rubbed on Back of Head and Neck is Quite Efficacious Remedy.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Head lice on chicks is one of the drawbacks from now on. No let up in fighting these pests should be allowed. There are many remedies on the market, but a little lard about the size of a pea rubbed thoroughly on the back of the head and neck is sufficient to rid the chick of these pests. This should be done after dusk on a dry, warm night. Previous to this the coop, hen or brooder should be thoroughly attended to.

FEED AND CARE OF CHICKENS

Department of Agriculture Has Issued Circular Which Will Be Found Important.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Now that hatching is over in many sections, it will be over very shortly everywhere. A great many factors are feeding and care of the young chicks. The department of agriculture at Washington issues a circular on "First Care of Baby Chicks," G-30, which is very helpful.

In the Argentine Republic if a man engaged to marry has state beyond a reasonable time in leading his fiancée to the altar he is heavily fined.

SECOND CLASS TOWNSHIPS WILL GET STATE AID

HARRISBURG, July 23.—Gov. William C. Spraul has signed the bill providing for a system of State "rewards" to townships for the construction and improvement of township roads, and for the erection and construction of township bridges, in townships of the second class. An appropriation of $1,000,000 will be available beginning Dec. 1, 1919. The new law takes the place of that which provided for bonuses of 50 per cent. of the amount expended by townships for road work, not exceeding $20 per mile.

By the terms of the new law the State Highway Department will pay rewards when work by the township has been completed and inspected. Rewards will be granted by the Commonwealth for improvements of the following nature:

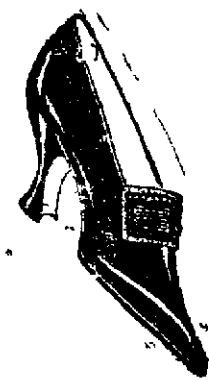

Grading and draining a section of road not less than half a mile long; graveling or cindering a graded and drained road not less than half a mile in length; for macadamizing a road or for constructing a Telford macadam road not less than half a mile long; for constructing a concrete, brick or bituminous surfaced road of not less than a half mile in length; for the erection and construction of bridges three feet or more span, constructed of concrete or stone or a combination of concrete and stone, or a steel bridge with a floor constructed of materials approved by the State Highway Department; and for the purchase and installation of culvert and drain pipe.

The rewards are to equal 33 1/3 per cent. of the cost of the proposed improvements, not to exceed certain sums.

All of these rewards will be based on roads the improvement for which is to be a width not less than sixteen feet; and a corresponding reduction or addition in the amount of the reward will be made as the width of the improved road is increased or reduced; but no reward shall be made for the improvement of any road less than twelve feet wide.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

The committee appointed by the Curwensville Odd Fellows lodge early in the spring to look up a site for a building or a structure already completed by which a new home for the order could be made, have not reported on anything definite in the matter of their work as yet and no purchase has been consummated. It is believed that the building season is so far advanced at the present time that it would be inadvisable to purchase ground and start the erection of new quarters. Yet the committee have not given up their work by any means, and it is just possible that they may yet find a building already constructed that would suit their purpose admirably by making some alterations. Their present quarters, in the tank building while comfortable are inadequate to accommodate the lodge's large membership, and the degree team are handicapped in doing proficient work on account of being compelled to do the degrees in such a narrow space. The lodge in the years that it has occupied its present quarters has spent a round sum of money in fixing up and furnishing their rooms, and the membership realize that the lodge must soon have larger and more commodious home. The fact that no purchase has been made is not a matter of money, but of a suitable location for the erection of a hall or the purchase of a building that could be turned into suitable quarters by making alterations.

Some one either through malice toward the owner or for pure unadulterated cussedness, killed a valuable Holstein two-year-old bull belonging to Joseph Bunnell. The animal was out in pasture and probably was disturbing no one. If the miscreant who used his gun too freely, can be discovered, Mr. Bunnell will certainly make it a red letter day in his calendar by forcing him to pay for the animal. There is a little too much of work-of-this-nature-being-done in this end of the county and an example should be made of a few fellows who have made it a business of killing other people's cattle, sheep and hogs simply because the animals happen to trespass on ground owned by them.

Mr. and Mrs. George Straitor were made happy yesterday by the arrival of a fine boy baby at their home.

The Blain City ball club, with no fear of defeat in their minds, came to Curwensville yesterday afternoon to play the local club a game as per schedule. They were a husky lot and played the game with a vim and snap that surprised some of the local fellows who have been playing at it for years. For the first five innings neither club had the advantage of a score to its credit, but after that the Blain Cityites began to score until at the finish they had rounded out seven hard earned runs to Curwensville's three; hence the visitors returned home joyous that they had succeeded in being able to add another notch in their victorious stick. The game was the best one played on the home grounds this season, was hotly contested by both sides from start to finish. Thursday the home team will play Morrisdale at Athletic park, and this game promises to be as interesting as the one yesterday. As one fellow put it yesterday evening: "Morrisdale is not much of a town but the village is great on the national game of base ball and that the towns' team is coming with blood in its eye to carry back with them to those who were left behind, a pennant with victory written upon it."

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hile, at their home near town yesterday morning.

ing, a daughter, which adds considerable joy in the home of the young parents.

A small fire yesterday afternoon in the home of Louie Burdett, north Pine street, brought out the fire department in a hurry, but arriving at the house found their presence was unnecessary as the flames had been put out and recourse to a water plug not in demand. One of the girls of the house was blacking the stove, in which the fire had not died out entirely. She was using black jack polish and says that it exploded starting the fire. In her efforts to put the fire out she was quite severely burned on the arms and hands. The damage to carpets and table linen was slight.

The Rescue Hose and Ladder company at a meeting held Monday evening voted to take part in the big coming Labor Day parade. The company will not only have a new fire truck in line but all of the old antiquated fire apparatus, uniforms, etc., that has accumulated in their department since the organization of the company in the year 1874.

Henry Heitenrath has purchased the "Busy Bee" restaurant from St. Richards, Jr., who has conducted the business for over a year, he having purchased the stock and goods of the place from Heitenrath, who wanted to enter other lines of business. Mr. Heitenrath took possession of his purchase on Monday and is now installed therein where he will welcome his old friends and any new ones who desire to enjoy a first class meal or lunch. He will still continue in the draying business, and those who are in need of his service along that line will find him at the restaurant or they can leave their order for work there.

Rev. Parkhill, wife and child, Lock Haven, motored up from their down river home and spent yesterday with Curwensville friends. Rev. Parkhill was, for several years, pastor of the Presbyterian church here prior to his removal to Lock Haven. The family were on their way to Canada, where they will spend their summer vacation, the Reverend gentleman putting in his time fishing.

Street Commissioner W. A. Dale and wife, Paul Dale and wife and Mrs. Daniel Newcomer, will leave this evening in Mr. Dale's car for Altoona where they will attend Methodist Day on Thursday.

Mrs. Verne Bloom returned to her home this place yesterday afternoon after spending a week at the old home farmhouse near Luthersburg.

George C. Fleming is confined to his home nursing a bad knee. "Pinkey" does not like his confinement a little bit and would much rather be over at the taneyr rolling up flexibles. He has the sympathy of his working comrades who miss him considerably.

The finance committee for the big Labor Day celebration held a meeting in the public building last evening, at which time progress was reported as to the raising of that $2000.

To the Woman Who "Never Has Any Luck Putting Up Fruit and Berries"

How even a Beginner can be Sure of Perfect Results in Making Jams, Jellies and Preserves

Good home preserving is now easy to accomplish. Even the housewife who "never has any luck" with all sugar preserving can put up fruit perfectly if she will first make her preserving syrup with ½ Karo (Red Label) and ½ sugar—instead of sugar alone.

By this method you can always have the finest, most delicious jams, good clear jellies, and preserves with a rich, heavy syrup. Karo is a fine, clear syrup, with a natural affinity for the fruit juices.

It blends the fruit with the sugar, doing away with one of the great difficulties of putting up fruit at home; and just about cutting the work in half.

You can depend on it that fruit put up by this method will never grow tough or "candy" in the glass.

For Cooking, Baking and Candy Making Karo (Red Label) is used in millions of homes. In all cooking and baking recipes use Karo instead of sugar. It is sweet, of delicate flavor, and brings out the natural flavor of the food.

OBITUARY

OLD RESIDENT DIES

Edwin E. Reed died at his home on West Fifth avenue at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, July 22d, after an illness extending over several years, aged 60 years, 3 months and 7 days.

The deceased was a son of the late John C. Reed, and was born and raised in Clearfield. He learned carpentering with his father and followed that trade until he met with an accident at Brick Works No. 2 some nine years ago, at which time he suffered a broken back. He had been an invalid since that time. He was an industrious, upright man and possessed a wide circle of friends.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, John, of Woodland, and Harry, of DuBois. He is also survived by three sisters and four brothers, as follows: Mrs. Ashley Thorn, Mrs. G. P. Drew and Mrs. Johnson Horn, of Clearfield; William, of Portland, Oregon; John W., of Houtdale, and Dr. Elliot B., of Long Beach, California.

He was a consistent member of the Lutheran church and his pastor Rev. C. W. Baker, will conduct the funeral services at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in Hillcrest cemetery.

EPISCOPAL MEN'S OUTING

On Monday afternoon thirty men of St. Andrew's P. E. church pucco themselves in the hands of Dean Bloem and hid themselves to the tail and uncut for an outing—without the "women."

The weatherman was most unkind and the original outing place had to be foregone but Dean made good and a suitable location was found.

There was a ball game that lasted long enough to make eighteen men about as sore, physically, as novices could be. Then there were the eats. Mac, of ice cream fame, who had been duly appointed as Lord High Filler of the Inner Man, had prepared a host of good things to eat and his fried chicken disappeared like the frog talked about sixth month frost.

After the eats there were some good talks, and Mac's choice of cigars was roasted to a turn. The men returned home between showers saying that, for once, they had a good time, had something good to eat, and without enlisting the aid of "Ere."

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Refreshments were served at a late hour. Those present were Misses Marian Rutter, Mildred Shaffer, Anetta Slep, Martha Cook, Martha Robb, Lois Russell, Esther Ross and Isobel Ross and Mrs. L. S. ## HOBART LEIPOLD HOME

Hobart Leopold, son of the late Dr. B. E. Leopold, who was recently mustered out of Uncle Sam's army after more than eighteen months' service overseas, arrived in Clearfield Tuesday and is a guest at the home of his uncle, Dr. F. D. Leopold, on West Walnut street. Hobart was in a cavalry regiment and made quite a record for himself in the service.

CHARLES DISALVO,
Private, Company B, 354th
Infantry.

Private Disalvo (deceased) was decorated for conspicuous gallantry in action near Remonville, France, November 1, 1918. When the combat group, of which he was a member, had been halted by enemy machine guns, Private Disalvo alone charged forward. Attacking the nest, he killed one gunman and forced the rest to surrender. His act enabled the group to continue their advance. During the charge on the nest he was so seriously wounded that he died on the field. His widow lives at 3305 Arlington avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

LEONARD LOOKING FOR OPPONENT TO STAGE A BATTLE

By H. C. HAMILTON

(United Press Staff Correspondent). NEW YORK, July 23.—Efforts are now being made to smoke up a match for Benny Leonard, the world's lightweight champion.

Leonard has pounded himself into the unenviable class where Johnny Kilbane stood so long. He has whipped so many of the better lightweight that there are very few left for him. Only a few matches remain.

Billy Gibson is a very careful and shrewd manager of the champion's fortunes. It was Gibson who prepared Leonard for the effort that brought him the championship, and it is Gibson who is guiding so surely the destinies of the young champion.

Gibson believes he will have a hard time convincing the public that there is anything left for Leonard to do. He wants to send the champion against Lew Tendler, the Philadelphiaan, but it is easy to believe Gibson's statement that Tendler is side-stepping the match because he is in deadly fear of being knocked out and thus knocking in the head his ideas of making a lot of money meeting the best of those under the champion.

Tendler is holding out for a meeting with Leonard at 135 pounds the afternoon before the fight, because he thinks Leonard cannot do the limit set years ago by the older battlers. Gibson claims Leonard can and will when the necessity arises.

"I know Leonard is pretty big right now," said Gibson. "He betters 140 and it is pretty good work when he gets under 135 for a bout. But I can take enough weight off his legs by putting rubber clothing on them to bring him well within the limit Tendler wants. Leonard can beat Tendler at that weight and if the inducement is sufficient, he will undertake it. I do not believe Tendler really wants the match."

Gibson has grown very sweet on Joe Benjamin, a lightweight he brot east on his last trip to the Pacific coast. He declares that Benjamin some day will be lightweight champion, although he flinches if a suggestion is made that Benjamin is good enough now to defeat the champion.

"Of course not," he declares. "There isn't a lightweight in the country who has a chance with Leonard. Benjamin is not ready yet to go into such a heavy brawl, but the time is coming some of these days when Benjamin will have to meet Leonard or Leonard will have to drop the title, through age or loss of desire to fight. Then, I believe, it will be Benjamin who will win. He's a comer."

The Tendler match, despite all the talk being made over it, probably will come off some time in the fall in a Jersey ring. And it is not probable that Gibson and Leonard will allow the Philadelphia youth to dictate terms. Leonard probably will decide to enter the ring at 135 pounds—his usual stipulation.

ACT QUICKLY

Do the right thing at the right time.

Act quickly in time of danger. In time of kidney danger, Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective.

Plenty of Clearfield evidence of their worth. Solomon Kline, 414 Nichols St., Clearfield, says: "I had an attack of rheumatic trouble about two years ago and there were pains in every joint of my body so I couldn't get around. My hands and feet were so swollen I was practically helpless for three weeks and the different medicines I used didn't do me any good. Finally, I got to taking Doan's Kidney Pills and they entirely removed all that trouble. I think highly of Doan's."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kline had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.
